

The Teacher's Message from Ecclesiastes

Our life experiences are

hevel:

impossible to predict

impossible to grasp impossible to control.

So

remember (trust in) God and fear him (tremble with happiness).

This perspective and commitment allows us to see time and eternity for what they are:

beautiful,

and to live out our life for what it is:

a gift from God.

This gift of God ultimately comes to us through THE GOSPEL, the good news that Jesus' death and resurrection conquers the profanities of hevel by substituting his righteousness for our rebellion thus restoring us to the loving care of the ONE SHEPHERD who knows us intimately, who loves us completely and who calls us to follow him where he would lead.

STUDY #10: John 10:1-21
The Good Shepherd and His Sheep.

The Cure -Unspoken

We're all related, brothers and strangers
The king and the beggar bleed the same We've all got a sickness, a terminal condition
We medicate it but the pain won't go away

See the eyes of a million faces
Looking for it in a million places
Only one can save us, Jesus

You are the cure!
Everybody's searching for it
Everybody's reaching out
Trying to grab a hold of something real
You are the cure!
Only you can satisfy us
Fill up the void inside us
Never been a heart you couldn't heal

You are the cure...

You are the doctor, healer and father
To the orphan without a home
We fell into darkness, lost till you found us
You are the remedy we're looking for

You are the cure!
Everybody's searching for it
Everybody's reaching out
Trying to grab a hold of something real
You are the cure!

Only you can satisfy us
Fill up the void inside us
Never been a heart you couldn't heal

You are the cure...

You are the cure for the broken, the hope for a hopeless world
The meaning, the purpose, the peace that will make us whole

Don't have to search no more
Don't have to search no more

You are the cure!
Everybody's searching for it
Everybody's reaching out
Trying to grab a hold of something real
You are the cure!
Only you can satisfy us
Fill up the void inside us
Never been a heart you couldn't heal

You are the cure...

You are the cure, cure
Never been a heart you couldn't heal
You are the cure, cure
Never been a heart you couldn't heal
